HOW DO I KNOW IF I AM HAVING A PSYCHOLOGICAL CRISIS?

- Experiencing serious thoughts about suicide or harm to yourself and worry that you may act upon them.
- Experiencing serious thoughts of doing harm to another person and may act upon them.
- Experiencing hallucinations (hearing, seeing, feeling things that no one else hears, sees, or feels). For example, hearing voices, seeing objects, or living things not heard or seen by others.
- Have been recently sexually assaulted.
- Have recently experienced trauma in the form of witnessing or experiencing sexual and/or physical violence.

IMPORTANT NOTES IF YOU HAVE BEEN SEXUALLY ASSAULTED:

- You may visit an emergency room for examination, treatment, and if you wish evidence collection. The Sexual Assault Survivors Emergency Treatment Act may cover emergency room costs.
- You may request evidence collection without choosing to make a police report at that time. If you choose to have evidence collected, it is important to go to the ER as soon as possible. To maximize evidence collection, avoid showering or changing clothes; avoid eating, drinking, or brushing teeth; and if possible, bring a change of clothes with you to the hospital.
- STI and pregnancy testing may or may not be accurate immediately after contact..
- College staff and faculty are required to report disclosed sexual assaults to the Title IX coordinator with the exception of Confidential Advisors which includes The Center for Student Wellbeing, TimelyCare, and Charee Mosby-Holloway at Student Diversity and Inclusion.
- Additional information about your rights and options are available in the college's Title IX policy (<https://students.colum.edu/title-ix/ccs-title-ix-sex-discrimination-and-sex-based-harassment-policy-8-1-24.pdf>) and the RESILIENCE website (<https://www.ourresilience.org/what-you-need-to-know/information-on-survivor-options-and-rights/>)
